(International News Service.)
Washington, Nov. 7.—Election news from New York today stirred official Washington. The declaration of the Empire state for suffrage marks the beginning of the end to organized opposition to votes for women. The result in New York undoubtedly gives the needed votes in the house to pass the Susan B Anthony amendment.

ATHENS BOY ON ILL FATED SHIP SUNK BY U-BOAT

Paul Leeper, step-son of Rev. George Hamilton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Athens, was on the U. S. patrol boat Alcedo that fell a victim to German submarines. His mother and step-father today awaited with keenest interest the announcement of the complete casualty list. So far, none of these lists has contained the name of the Athens sailor, who was an enlisted man in the United States navy. Dr. Hamilton is the official host of the Alabama Synod, and the delegates to that high church body today shared his anxiety for the safety of his son.

The following men from the Alcedo are unaccounted for:

Lieut. junior grade, Jno. T. Melvin, Selma, Ala.; E. R. Gozzett, seaman, Long Island; James J. Clary, White Plains; W. R. Wresche, Brooklyn; E. R. Ricker, Brooklyn; W. R. Holler, New York City; J. W. ### ALBANY FIRE DEPARTMENT DOES GOOD WORK.

The Albany fire department was called out on Sunday to extinguish a small fire in a barn in the rear of a residence on 81th avenue and Eleventh street, and on Tuesday a bad fire at 418 Johnston street caused a blaze. Both were extinguished with small loss.

HYLAN'S MAJORITY ENORMOUS.

(International News Service.)
New York, Nov. 7.—Democracy's candidate, Judge John E. Hyland, today stood elected to the mayoralty of Greater New York by the biggest plurality ever granted to any man in the city's history. With only 27 elective districts out of 2,068 missing, the democratic candidate's plurality over Mayor John P. Mitchell, his nearest opponent, was 145,636.

Mayor Hyland made the following statement:

The result speaks for itself. The people have spoken, and in no uncertain manner. Democracy has once more been restored to power. The people and not the corporate interests will rule for the next four years. I am, indeed, grateful for the confidence thus reposed in me by the citizens of the city of New York.

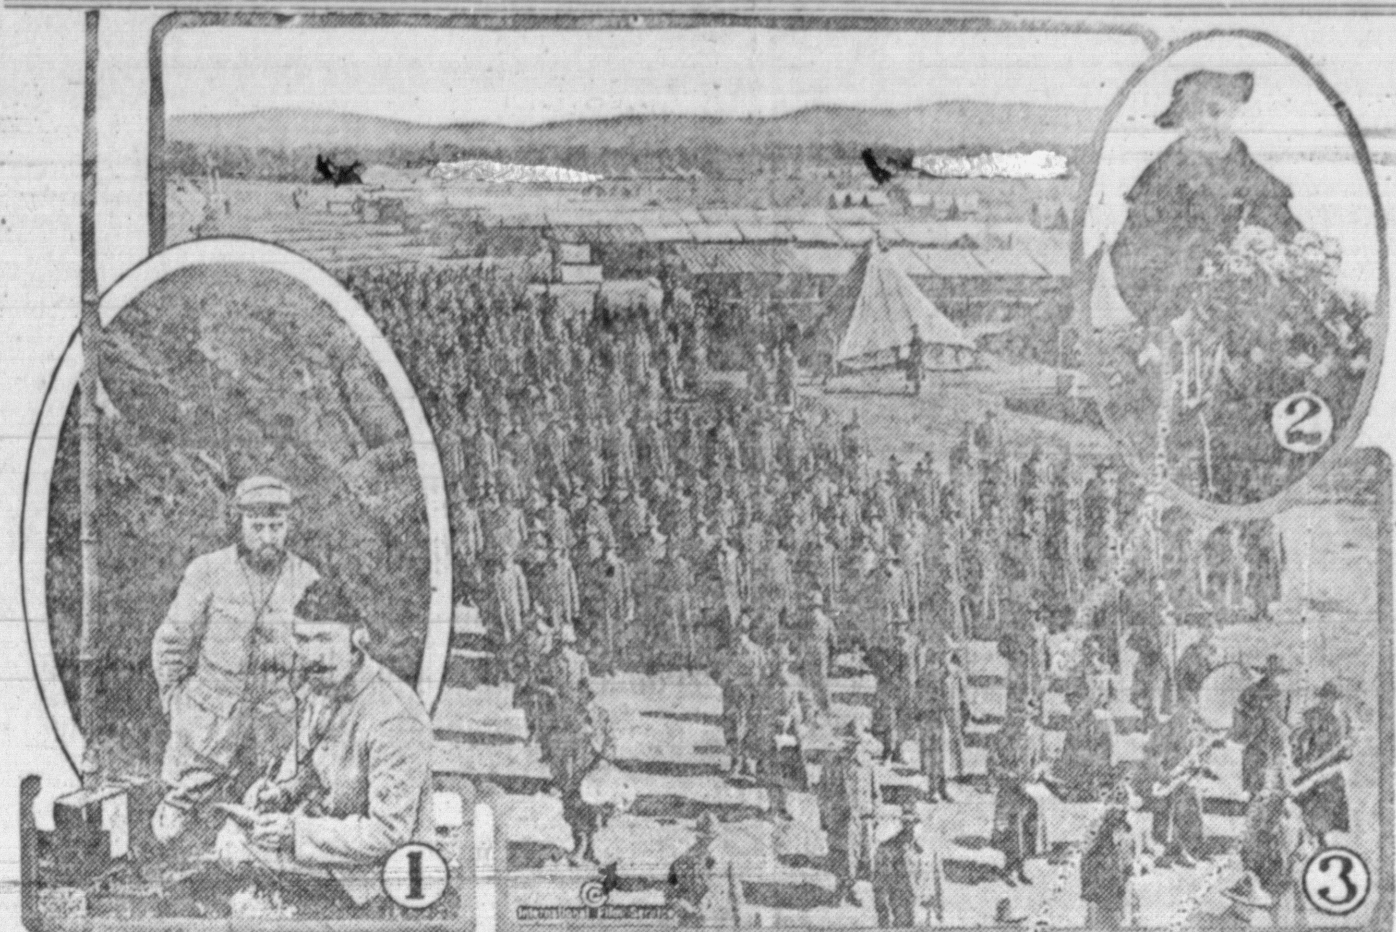

The result is a complete justification of the fight we have made for honesty, efficiency and economy in the public service. That was the sole issue upon which the election was decided.

I want to make it plain to the world that there was no issue of Americanism or loyalty involved, so far as I am concerned. There could be none, for I am as good an American as any man, as loyal to my flag, as loyal to my country and as firm and determined in support of every act of the government in this war as any man.

I ask the editors of the newspapers in this city and in other cities to give prominence to this declaration, so that there may not go abroad to the people of this country who have no appreciation of our local situation the slightest intimation that the question of the war or the war policy of President Wilson and the United States government are in the slightest way involved.

My first utterance in this campaign in response to a question put up by a reporter was that I stood uncompromisingly behind the president in support of the

U-BOATS SWARM INTO THE WAR ZONE AFTER U. S. SHIPS

Sinking of the Patrol Vessel Alcedo Did Not Surprise The Navy Department

(International News Service.)
Washington, Nov. 7.—News of the sinking of the American patrol boat Alcedo by a German submarine early Monday morning with the loss of one officer and 20 enlisted men was received by the navy department with deep regret, but not with surprise. The daily reports sent to the department by Vice Admiral Sims have led officials here to believe that the German submarine warfare was more intensive than ever before. Vice Admiral Sims reported that since the presence of American troops in France in considerable numbers it has become known that Germany was making every effort to sink troop transports, and as a result the war zone literally swarms with undersea craft and attacks are of much greater frequency. In the opinion of naval officers here, Germany is determined to keep the gravity of the situation from dawn upon the German people in its full significance.

Defendant Wins Suit Tried Five Times; Gets Judgement

A verdict for the defendant has been returned in the circuit court in the case of S. E. Stewart vs. Lattie Orr et al., and a judgment in recoupment in favor of the defendant and against the plaintiff given in the sum of $591. This case has been tried five times. Three times the jury returned a disagreement, and once the plaintiff won but the suit was reversed by the supreme court.

The plaintiff sued for the collection of a note alleged to have been due by the deceased husband of the defendant. Mrs. Orr claimed that the note had been paid and produced a cancelled note found among the effects of her dead husband. The plaintiff, however, attempted to prove that this note had not been cancelled until after Mr. Orr's death.

The plaintiff was represented by Tidwell & Sample, and the defendant by E. W. Godbey and E. C. Nix.

(International News Service.)
Washington, Nov. 7.—The action of the United States in recognizing Japan's interest in China through formal action of the department of state adds another stone in the foundation for foreign trade supremacy which Japan is building. Officials of the Washington government who have been studying Japan's phenomenal rise in the foreign trade field as the result of the war, interpret the recognition of Japanese rights in China as a momentous victory for the empire's newly adopted imperial policy of getting as much of the world's trade as she can.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR IS KING OF POLAND

Premier Kerensky Will Go After Separate Peace Advocates in Russia

(International News Service.)
London, Nov. 7.—The Germans stand with their backs turned to Roulers, evidently determined to make their stand at that important base until the last vestige of hope disappears.

With the fall of Pass Chendaele there remains little or nothing to stop the Haig rush on to Roulers, five miles away. Again the Canadian soldiers have covered themselves with glory. They not only captured Pass Chendaele, but rushed to a point 800 yards beyond its center. With the fall of Pass Chendaele the hamlets of Mossel and Georberg also were taken from the enemy. Hundreds of German prisoners captured continued today to arrive at the prison camp.

(International News Service.)
Rome, Nov. 7.—That Gen. Cadorna plans at least one more engagement with the ever increasing enemy hordes before taking up his battle formations along the Piave river is the consensus of opinion among military authorities here today. Advice from the Venetian front today tell of the arrival of fresh enemy troops, bringing the total enemy front to 1,000,000 men. The enemy hordes now include Germans, Austrians, Bulgarians and Turks. Venice is undoubtedly the enemy objective.

(International News Service.)
Rome, Nov. 7.—Gen. Cadorna's retreating Italian army is stubbornly contesting every foot of ground as it nears the Piave river. The war office announced today that the Italian line had withdrawn to the Livenza river in good order. The statement adds that enemy bridges over the Tagliamento river were bombed.

(International News Service.)
Petrograd, Nov. 7.—Premier Kerensky plans to use drastic methods to overcome the Maximists, who he claims planned to affect a separate peace with Germany. The premier today, addressing the preliminary Russian parliament, asked if the government will have its support in the move.

(International News Service.)
Berlin, Nov. 7.—The pursuit of the enemy continues in the mountains and also on the Venetian plains, the war office reported today. The report added that thousands of Italian prisoners had been taken.

Paris, Nov. 7.—French artillery fire broke up the German artillery attack on the right bank of the Meuse near Lachmume wood, and raids northwest of Rheims were repulsed, the war office statement today said.

Hartselle Postmaster Stays On Job Pending Investigation

Senator Underwood Secures Re-Hearing and Full Vindication is Expected to Follow

Miss Elizabeth Simpson has scored in the fight for retention as postmaster at Hartselle, according to information received here today. The postoffice department, at the request of United States Senator Oscar W. Underwood, has suspended the order for her removal and has granted a further hearing of the charges brought against her, which are said to have been trivial and to have consisted of alleged minor irregularities such as are committed by practically all postmasters.

The suspension of the order for the removal is considered a victory for the plucky lady postmaster, as she has all along contended that with a fuller investigation that she would be fully vindicated.

It is stated that Miss Simpson's removal was due to the activity of her political enemies, one of whom is said to be an applicant for the position and to have boasted that he will be appointed her successor, despite the fact that a competitive civil service examination had been ordered for the purpose of filling the vacancy. This examination was to have been held in Albany the latter part of the present month. It was charged that the removal was made on the recommendation of an inspector who came to Hartselle while Miss Simpson was known to be in Washington.

According to rumors prevalent in political circles, some interesting facts will be brought to light when the case is re-opened.

Congressman E. B. Almon is said to have stated that he made an effort to obtain another hearing for North Alabama's only woman postmaster, but that he failed.

MISS SIMPSON ENTITLED TO A FAIR HEARING.

The postal department is to be congratulated on its consideration in granting a fuller hearing to Miss Elizabeth Simpson, whose removal as postmaster at Hartselle had been ordered on the recommendation of an inspector. As the Daily sees it, from the facts at hand, Miss Simpson was guilty of no graver offense than is committed daily by practically every postmaster of the land. In no office is perfect service given, and in no office will a flawless score ever be made so long as postmasters are held responsible for every action of their subordinates.

In the Hartselle case, it is charged, and the charge has not been refuted, that political enemies of the postmaster were active in securing an investigation of the office at a time that she was known to be out of the city. This smacks a bit of dark lantern methods and does not appeal to the chivalry of the average man nor to even a minimized sense of fair play. The Daily is free to say that it does not believe that many postmasters would retain their offices long were similar tactics resorted to to obtain their removal.

Under civil service regulations, an applicant for the position of postmaster is allowed 35 per cent in the grading for business experience. It is admitted that Miss Simpson is entitled to this credit, for she is known to be one of the best business women in this section of the state, having been uniformly successful in the management of her own affairs. Certainly none of the applicants for the Hartselle postmastership could claim to have a similar experience in the handling of postal matters. The remaining credits are given for proficiency in letter writing, arithmetic and spelling. In none of these branches has she proven deficient. Obviously, attempts to secure her removal must have been inspired by a craving for political pie rather than by any belief that a more competent person would be named for the place.

Senator Underwood, at whose request the re-hearing was granted, is distinguished for a love of justice rather than for an overweening propensity to trim his sails to the political winds. That he has championed the cause of a voteless woman is in itself a practical refutation of the charges that have been made against her.

That gentleness of spirit which prompted Congressman Almon to vote against the declaration of war on Germany should align him on the side of the weaker sex. That capacity for swinging big things that enabled him to land the four-million dollar nitrate plant for Muscle Shoals should be sufficient guarantee that he will be able to get justice done a third class postmaster.

THE NEW YORK ELECTION GIVES NO HOPE TO ARDENT PACIFISTS.

John P. Mitchell and Morris Hilquitt were so overwhelmingly defeated as candidates for mayor of New York City that there is no room left for supposing that the election was in any sense a test of the popularity of the war in the United States. It is evident that Mr. Mitchell failed to convince the voters that he had a monopoly of the patriotism, and especially a monopoly sufficiently imposing to cover up the scandals charged against his administration, and for that reason he was snowed under after the fashion of any other fusion candidate when coming up against the Tammany machine. The unfortunate thing is that Mr. Mitchell made it appear abroad that he was in reality the candidate of the undiluted Americans, and that for this reason his defeat in some parts of the Hohenzollern empire may give comfort to the disciples of destruction.

There was but one clear cut test. Hilquitt ran openly and brazenly as the candidate of the pacifists, the yellow livered, the socialists, the anarchists and all others who are opposed to America and American institutions. From the rabble of the great metropolis he rallied to his colors those wild and woolly elements which could not be found in any other city of the land. Jeremiah O'Leary and the other disloyal Americans, including the big German bankers and their personal following, made common cause with the raucous voiced, the unkempt, the long-haired and the seditious. The Kaiser sent his best spokesman—La Follette, of Wisconsin—to lend his golden eloquence to the cause of the socialist. In the face of all this, Hilquitt went down ingloriously. No census need now be taken to ascertain the number of misguided and pro-German residents in Gotham. Hilquitt voted them all.

That the election is not a repudiation of the war, that it was not a verdict against Americanism, is best shown by the statement issued by John F. Hylan, the successful candidate. Just as soon as his election was conceded, the mayor-elect, over his own signature, hastened to set the country right in the following language:

I want to make it plain to the world that there was no issue of Americanism or loyalty involved, so far as I am concerned. There could be none, for I am as good an American as any man, as loyal to my flag, as loyal to my country and as firm and determined in support of every act of the government in this war as any man.

The Making of a Soldier of the Seas

By RICHARD BOEKEL, Written for the International News Service

A Marine Corps Cantonment, Nov. 7.—Entire new uniform equipment for the marine corps men in training here is now in process of manufacture. The new uniforms will be distributed just before the marines leave for France.

One usually thinks of a marine as a person wearing a dark blue coat, light blue trousers with a red stripe down the side, and a peaked cap with a half-globe ornament. Those are the uniforms in which they are least frequently dressed, however. These days they are wearing khaki altogether.

Digging trenches in the brownish yellow clay here, the men are almost invisible from a little distance. The earth of northern France is of an entirely different color, however, and the dust-colored uniforms with which they are now equipped instead of making them invisible would let them stand out in strong relief against the landscape.

The new uniforms are of a dark greenish gray. They are darker than the German uniform, adopted for the same purpose, but are said to blend perfectly with the setting in which the marines will fight. The color was chosen only after voluminous reports from military observers abroad showed the present color had to be discarded.

When on the march the marines will carry a compact knapsack on their backs. This will hold one blanket, some essential toilet articles and some cooking utensils. Other equipment will be transported on great motor trucks, five of which are allotted to each company for baggage.

During their spare moments these days the marines sit on the sides of their bunks marking their equipment with their names and practising at rolling their knapsacks. They want everything to be in readiness for the start the moment the word is passed that the "big trip" is soon to be undertaken.

Calomels, the new harmless and nauseous calomel, may now be obtained at almost any good drug store. As a liver cleanser and system-purifier the new Calomels are even more effective than the old style calomel, yet there is not the slightest danger, nausea nor unpleasantness.

One Calomel at bedtime, with a swallow of water, that's all. Next morning you awake feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please, fruits, acids or anything. There is not the slightest danger nor interference with your work. Calomels are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your druggist will refund your money if you are not delighted—he recommends them. (Adv.)

No one but myself can know the severe pains I endured. My ankles and hands swelled and there were other distressing kidney disorders. I had a dull steady ache in the small of my back and was getting in a bad way when my family doctor recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. After I used one box I was much better. It is now about six years since I took Doan's and I haven't had a bad attack of kidney trouble since."

KEEP WEEVILS OUT OF CORN CRIBS

By W. E. Hinds, Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.
The first step in controlling all insects that attack stored corn is to gather the earliest maturing corn as soon as it is matured enough to feed. This can be done in about six weeks after the corn is in roasting ear stage, and if gathered thus promptly, with the shuck on, practically all of the insects of the first generation can be taken out of the field and the infestation of later corn can be prevented to a very large degree.

The second step should consist in the selection in the field from the standing stalks of an abundance of seed ears for next years planting. Particular attention should be paid to the long, tight-fitting husk and pendent qualities which tend to give weevil resistance. Both of these matters will be found more fully considered in other articles.

The third step relates to the main crop. This should be gathered as soon as possible after it is thoroughly matured.

The sooner corn is placed where the insects can be controlled the better it is for the corn. The main crop should be gathered by breaking the ear from the shuck in the field as this practice leaves fully three-fourths of the adult insects in the field instead of putting them all in the crib as is done when the corn is gathered and stored with the shuck on. With a little practice and by the aid of a husking pin or hook the bare ears can be gathered practically as rapidly as they can in the shuck.

Numerous careful experiments have shown that corn from the same fields loses less than half as much from weevil attack during a full season's storage where shucked before storage as does similar corn stored with the shuck on. Shucks are a protection to the ears while they are growing and maturing but after that they are far more of a protection to the insects while they attack the grain than to the grain itself.

Separate Infested and Uninfested Ears.
Shucking the corn in the field, or at least before it is placed in the crib enables the farmer to separate the infested and uninfested ears so that they may be stored separately. Ears with open, exposed tips or loose husks will always have the major part of the weevils and it is pretty safe to consider these as infested in all except very late maturing corn. Other ears on which no insects appear may be safely classed as uninfested.

Store the infested ears where they will be disposed of first, in feeding or by sale. It may be advisable to fumigate this portion of the crop with carbon disulphide, or "high life." Fumigation calls for a tight room to confine the gas in killing strength for several hours. The tighter the room the less "high life" will be required and the more thorough the insect control. Information regarding the construction of a fumigation room will be sent on application to Entomologist, Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Ala.

The uninfested ears, and all very late maturing corn is likely to be uninfested, may be stored in almost any kind of a shelter in which it will be kept dry and kept until the following June or July with very little insect injury, and without requiring any fumigation to protect it.

AUTO LICENSES NOW DELINQUENT

MORE THAN $2,000 TO BE COLLECTED FROM THE OWNERS OF CARS.

John Green, clerk of the probate court, is busy today mailing out notices to automobile owners who have failed to pay the annual tax due on the joy riding machines, and also to some 200 persons and firms who are delinquent on privilege taxes.

The penalty on Ford owners, and owners of other cars of similar horsepower, with costs, amounts to $10.35 for each machine, while the owners of cars of higher horse-power must pay more, the license being adjusted on a sliding scale. As about 200 are delinquent, this means that more than $2,000 in delinquent taxes will be collected from this source alone.

Already 427 automobile licenses have been issued to owners of private cars, and the trucks and other motor vehicles that have been licensed will bring this total up to 500. There are about 725 cars owned in the county.

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful."

I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. It kept me awake most of the night. I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui.

I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. I decided I would try Cardui. By time I had taken the entire bottle I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone.

I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well. If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise Cardui for their present good health. Give it a trial.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—While the woman's presidential measure has been wiped off the statute books by a heavy majority by incomplete returns early today, the prohibition issue was still in doubt. The wets had a majority of 13,275 out of 4,721 precincts reporting. The prohibition fight is running close.

WOMEN WIN IN NEW YORK.

(International News Service.)

New York, Nov. 7.—The great state of New York awoke today to find nearly 2,000,000 new voters within its borders. Woman's suffrage has won in New York and latest indications are that it carried by more than 80,000 votes, after 69 years of effort since the first woman's suffrage convention was held in the United States.

New York is the first of the great eastern states to grant women the ballot, and having won their fight the suffragists of the Empire state will now turn their attention towards a federal amendment to enfranchise women throughout the United States.

CURFEW MAY RING FOR ALBANY YOUTHS; COUNCIL MEETS

ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS THAT DISBURSEMENTS FOR PAST YEAR EXCEEDED INCOME.

Curfew may ring every night for the small boys of Albany, if the police committee of the city council decides that the youngsters are staying out too late. The matter was brought before the city council at its meeting last night by Judge F. M. Hamilton, as the representative of the three churches of South Albany, who urged that such a law be enacted or that if one already existed that it be enforced. The matter was referred to the police committee, which will probably submit a report at the next meeting.

The council also heard the report of City Attorney Tidwell in regard to the dissolution of the injunction granted the Masonic theatre to prevent the enforcement of the movie censorship law, and with one dissenting vote adopted a resolution offered by Alderman Wolfe, which provided that proceedings be taken against Manager Cagle at the end of thirty days, should no appeal be made from the decision of Judge Brickell.

The license schedule came up for consideration, and went over to a special session of the council to be held Friday night. It is stated that a number of changes are proposed.

City Finances.

City Clerk Henry Hartung submitted his annual report showing that the city had collected during the past year the sum of $80,225.99 and had disbursed $77,338.86. The report included collections for street assessments, and when closely analyzed shows that the financial affairs of the municipality are not in first-class condition. Of the total amount collected, the general fund received $43,265.96 and the disbursements for general expenses were $44,594.47, or a deficit of about $1,300. W. A. Curry is now auditing the city's books, and his report will be submitted at an early meeting of the council.

AMUSEMENTS

Herbert Brenon Presents Florence Reed in "The Eternal Sin," at the Masonic Theatre Friday and Saturday, November 9 and 10.

Herbert Brenon's second Selznick-Pictures production, "The Eternal Sin," is a masterpiece of beauty. With a gorgeous setting, one of the most sensational stories ever placed upon the screen or the stage, is told. The central character is Lucretia Borgis who is regarded by some historians as one of the worst women the world has ever known. In "The Eternal Sin" another side of her character is shown, and it develops that she had as great capacity for love and devotion as she had for hatred and revenge. The manner in which, in her attempts to avenge herself upon certain bitter enemies, she places the person she loves most deeply in dire peril, and brings about a tremendous tragedy, is one of the greatest stories ever told by that master of literature, Victor Hugo. Frances Reed will be seen as Lucretia. Other members of the distinguished cast are William E. Shay, Richard Barthelmess, Alexander K. Shannon and many more film favorites.

Delite and Star Thursday, Gail Kane Is Presented in Light Comedy.

Miss Gail Kane, the brilliant young Broadway favorite, who is starred in a new American-Mutual photo-drama, "The Upper Crust," has secured in this remarkable production a high-class medium for the display of her dramatic genius.

"The Upper Crust" is a cleverly constructed play with a strong love motive and a strain of comedy running through it, albeit the plot is full of dramatic complications that involve keen suspense interest and plenty of thrills.

FALL FESTIVAL THURSDAY NIGHT

WILL BE GIVEN AT MASONIC THEATRE AND PROMISES TO BE MOST INTERESTING EVENT.

The best single piece of good fortune that has come to the Red Cross is the offer of Mrs. W. R. Shelton, president, in behalf of the Music Study club to give its fall musical festival program for the benefit of the soldier boys' Christmas fund.

From partial reports on the program, it appears that a lot of hard work has been done and is being done, and the talent represented insures a rare treat for all who go to the Masonic theatre Thursday night.

Miss Marie Kimbrough, who single-handed inspired and delighted her audience at the last Red Cross entertainment, will be one of the highly valued entertainers. Miss Sue Sheppard, a sister of Mrs. Shelton, will come from her home in Columbia, Tenn., to lend her proven talent to the success of the occasion. O. W. Baxter, of Huntsville, is another out-of-town guest who will be heard with eager interest. Misses Roberta Hicks, Ione Clark and Marie Kimbrough will give the opening number. It is said of Miss Clark, by those who know, that outside of professionals, there is not a singer in the South who can reach a higher note than she or do so with greater ease or grace.

"The Soldier's Dream" appears early on the program, and requires thirty-six players. Capt. Joe Pettey of the Home Guards, is to be chief dreamer.

Military Drill by Home Guard.

Prominent in the first division of the program is to be a military drill by the entire membership of the Home Guard under command of Major B. L. Malone. Miss Frances Todd, who, if she reaches the high mark set by her talented sister, will put her audience in an uproar of mirth, or melt them to tears, will appear in a costume monologue, the title not yet announced.

An exhibition of first aid to the wounded will be given by the Boy Scouts under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Donnell and Dr. H. R. Thompson.

The Second Division.

The second division of the program is now being earnestly worked out by the Music Study club. An evidence of the strenuous work being done by Mrs. Shelton, as president, is contained in her remark: "I am working so hard on this effort that I feel like it must be my last."

Though this entertainment is being given entirely from altruistic motives and for like purposes it is to be on a strictly business basis, and anyone who does not get many times his money's worth will have his entrance fee cheerfully returned to him.
